

Table of Contents

The Gender Pay Gap in Europe from a Legal Perspective	5
Introduction	5
The gender pay gap: a continuing source of sorrow	5
The concept of the gender pay gap	7
1. The general situation in Europe	8
1.1. Characteristics of the gender pay gap	8
1.1.1. Lower gender pay gap in the public sector	8
1.1.2. Age	9
1.1.3. Large differences between sectors	9
1.1.4. Education and position	9
1.1.5. Influence of low female employment levels	9
1.1.6. Influence of the economic crisis	10
1.1.7. Immigrants	10
1.2. From unadjusted/absolute gender pay gap to corrected/net gender pay gap	10
1.2.1. Part-time work and temporary (fixed-term) work	10
1.2.2. Horizontal and vertical segregation of the labour market	11
1.2.3. Frequent career interruptions and combination of a profession with family duties	11
2. The legal framework	11
2.1. Constitutional provisions	12
2.2. Acts of Parliament	12
3. Instruments of social partners	12
3.1. Collective bargaining	12
3.1.1. Collective labour agreements must respect the equal pay principle	12
3.1.2. Importance of collective labour agreements decreasing	13
3.1.3. Collective negotiation structure reproducing the gender pay gap	13
3.2. Measures inducing/obliging social partners to address the gender pay gap	13
3.3. Other practices of social partners aimed at tackling the gender pay gap	14
4. Instruments specifically aimed at employers	14
4.1. Measures relating to statistics	15
4.2. Measures relating to transparency of pay	15
4.3. Measures regarding public procurement	16
4.4. Measures regarding the adoption of equality plans/strategies	16
4.5. Other measures encouraging employers to fight the gender pay gap	17
5. Other instruments to close the pay gap	17
5.1. Instruments that may assist individuals to establish pay discrimination	17
5.1.1. Shifting the burden of proof	17
5.1.2. National equality bodies may help to gather information	18
5.2. Instruments that may assist in establishing gender-neutral job evaluation and pay systems	18
5.3. Monitoring of collective labour agreements, job evaluation systems, etc.	19
5.4. The role of labour inspectorates	19
5.5. Special pay policies	20
6. Problems of enforcement of equal pay rules	20
6.1. Court proceedings	20
6.1.1. Problematic scope of comparison	21
6.1.2. Lack of personal resources of claimants	22
6.1.3. Time limits	22
6.1.4. Limited compensation and sanctions	23
6.1.5. Lack of trust in the judiciary	23
6.2. Procedures before national equality bodies	24

Table of Contents

7.	Relationship between the gender pay gap and other parts of law	24
	7.1. Part-time work	25
	7.2. Overtime	25
	7.3. Temporary (fixed-term) work arrangements	26
	7.4. Posting of workers	26
	7.5. Issues related to reconciliation of work and family life	26
	7.6. Party autonomy in contract law	27
	7.7. Measures to fight unemployment	27
	7.8. Pensionable age and pension systems	28
	7.9. Measures regarding seniority/length of service/evaluation	28
	7.10. Provisions of family law	28
8.	Some good practices	29
9.	Conclusion	29

Annexes

Annex I	Selected Bibliography	33
Annex II	Members of the European Network of Legal Experts in the Field of Gender Equality	39